WELCOME

Welcome to the 2022 Summer Season created by British Youth Music Theatre. We have eight new shows happening across the UK and, at their heart, they each have brilliant young people and dedicated professionals collaborating to find ways to tell new stories through music theatre. Our starting point in rehearsal is an understanding that we are 'Making Theatre Together, For Everyone'.

Thank you for coming to see this new version of A Midsummer Night's Dream. We are delighted to have a director who is an expert in creating Shakespeare productions with and for young people and a composer who works with the Royal Shakespeare Company. Together with the team and our wonderful young performers they have woven together a magical telling of this tale and found its contemporary relevance, whilst having a lot of creative fun along the way, including encouraging the young people to write lyrics for the songs. As a first for BYMT, this incredible company have also created content for our first Virtual World, inspired by Joel Hall's experience as a Digital Producer, and we hope you will explore this and join us for the online performance on Saturday 3rd September.

It's complex to create new musicals and your feedback helps us to develop and grow our work. You can tell us what you think about the show at mail@bymt.org and, if you can, please support more young people to access our life changing, creative opportunities at britishyouthmusictheatre.org/support-us

A NOTE FROM VICTORIA GARTNER

A Midsummer Night's Dream is one of the world's most famous plays. The legend says that at any given moment, this Shakespearean classic about a love square, the rulers of Fairyland and an ass is being performed somewhere in the world. Right now, it is about to be brought to life through song, dance and verse by an incredibly talented cast of passionate young people in front of your very eyes. Let them enchant you with this story about our very world and our troubled times. Our interpretation focuses on a society that desperately needs to hear the call of nature, and to heal its disruption through a deep re-wilding. Nestled in the heart of the Celtic natural world, at the boundary between Shropshire and Wales, between the human world and the Otherworld, is the waterfall of Pistyll Rhaeadr. It sang to us songs of legends, mischief and love, it whispered to us of its sprites and queens, and led us through its fairy bridge to a place where magic reigns supreme. And now, we cannot wait to share this dreamy journey with you. A Midsummer Night's Dream invites you to be the lunatic, the lover and the poet and to follow our rude mechanicals through an ancient woodland where we will all dance, sing and rejoice together. Do not worry – once the revelry is over, we will bring you back to Oswestry. But not before we sneak a few crumpled purple flowers in your pocket. Ay, me! What a dream is here!

These two solo plays about Shakespeare experiencing writer's block during the Elizabethan plague have been performed in private gardens, schools, care homes and festivals by many actors all over the UK to great public and critical acclaim (The Guardian, The Telegraph, The Independent). Dame Helen Mirren is the Godmother of the project. Other work by Victoria includes Will or Eight Lost Years of William Shakespeare's Life, which has toured Europe in both French and English, Verona (Theatre tri-bühne, Stuttgart) and Judith & Hamnet (Lausanne Shakespeare Festival). Victoria has been teaching Shakespeare for many years, giving workshops in schools and universities, including at the Shakespeare Birthplace Trust and East15 Acting School, where she is currently teaching acting and directing Shakespeare. She is passionate about giving everyone access to words in a fresh and vibrant way, using the body as well as the mind to unlock the verse. She started her directing career as Assistant Director for opera company NOF on works such as Acis & Galatea and Blanche Neige.
